Marc Alexander Barcelos

Ph.D. Fellow at TEXT: Center for Contemporary Cultures of Text
Faculty of Arts, Aarhus University

marcb@cc.au.dk +45 53 57 34 24 Marc Barcelos ORCID

Profile

I'm a PhD Fellow at TEXT: Center for Contemporary Cultures of Text at Aarhus University, where I study writer identity in human–AI collaboration, namely what happens to an individual's measurable style when they write with large language models like ChatGPT and Claude. My dissertation develops the expressive profile pipeline, which condenses dozens of stylistic features into a handful of core dimensions that capture what makes a writer recognizable. I use it to compare human and AI-generated text, measure how co-writing with AI shifts a writer's style, and map where authorship, style, and reception come apart in this co-writing context.

Education

Sept. 2025 – Now

Ph.D. Comparative Literature & Rhetoric — Aarhus University, Denmark
Project – Human Expression Under Generative Constraint: Modeling Writer Identity in Human and AI Narratives
Relevant Courses: Lecturer for The General Linear Model, Human Centered Artificial Intelligence, Research Integrity and Ethics, and Introduction to University Teaching for PhD Students

Sep. 2023 – Jun. 2025

M.Sc. Cognitive Science — Aarhus University, Denmark
Thesis (12/A) – Thinking Together in Time: A Cognitive Modeling Approach to Musical Synchrony in Jazz Ensembles
Relevant Courses: Natural Language Processing, Human Computer Interaction, Decision Making, Advanced Cognitive Modeling, and Data Science, Precision, & Forecasting

Aug. 2019 – May 2023

B.A. Psychology (Minor Biology) — CSU Long Beach, CA, USA
College of Liberal Arts – GPA 3.85; Psychology GPA – 4.0
Relevant Courses: Human Cognition, Social Psychology, Psychology of Learning, Neuropsychology, Multivariate Statistics, & Biostatistics

Relevant Experience

Sep. 2025 – Now

Ph.D. Research Fellow — Aarhus University, Denmark
TEXT: Center for Contemporary Cultures of Text
Supervisor: Mads Rosendahl Thomsen, Ph.D., Professor

- Developing the expressive profile pipeline, which condenses dozens of stylistic features into a handful of core dimensions of writer style
- Comparing human and AI-generated text across contexts, from published novels to online fanfiction
- Measuring how co-writing with AI shifts a writer's style in real human–AI conversations
- Building a framework for mapping where authorship, style, and reception come apart in human–AI co-writing, contributing to wider debates on AI and authorship

Dec. 2024 – Jun. 2025

Data Analyst — Aarhus University, Denmark
Aarhus Institute of Advanced Studies
Supervisor: Jens Seeberg, Ph.D., Professor

- Standardized multiple survey datasets from sites in India and Nepal for comparative analyses of antimicrobial resistance
- Utilized natural language processing techniques to standardize open-ended survey questions
- Completed a biosocial network analysis linking individuals, pathogens, resistances, workplaces, medicines, and providers in a multi-level analysis

Publications

Papers in Preparation

1. Barcelos, M. (2027). Who wrote it, how it reads, where it lands: A quantitative framework for measuring the gaps between authorship, style, and reception [Manuscript in preparation]. TEXT: Center for Contemporary Cultures of Text, Aarhus University.
2. Barcelos, M. (2027). [Introducing the Expressive Profile Pipeline for quantifying authorial voice] [Manuscript in preparation]. TEXT: Center for Contemporary Cultures of Text, Aarhus University.
3. Yamamoto, R., Barcelos, M., & Iwami, T. (2025). A qualitative assessment of the use of emotions in Abe's public policy towards Indonesia, the Philippines and Vietnam [Manuscript in preparation]. Department of Global Studies, Aarhus University.

Conference Presentations

4. Barcelos, M. (2026, June). Stylistic corridors: How generative AI narrows expressive freedom in fanfiction [Work-in-progress presentation]. Problems and Prospects of Computational Fanfiction Research Workshop, DH Benelux 2026, Maastricht, Netherlands.
5. Barcelos, M. (2026, May). Style after success: A multidimensional analysis of context-driven expressive drift in US-published creative writing during the long 20th century [Poster presentation]. 5th Annual Conference of Computational Literary Studies (CCLS2026), Potsdam, Germany.
6. Barcelos, M. (2026, March). Expressive adaptation in human-AI co-writing [Paper presentation]. AI and the Creative Condition Conference, TEXT: Center for Contemporary Cultures of Text, Aarhus University, Aarhus, Denmark.
7. Barcelos, M. (2026, March). What happens to style after success? A multidimensional analysis of literary style shifts after recognition [Paper presentation]. Digital Humanities in the Nordic and Baltic Countries 2026 (DHNB2026), Aarhus, Denmark.

Invited Talks

8. Barcelos, M. (2026, October). Who wrote it, how it reads, where it lands: A framework for measuring the gaps between authorship, style, and reception [Invited talk]. Stanford Literary Lab, Stanford University, Stanford, CA, United States.
9. Barcelos, M., & Thomsen, M. R. (2026, April). Loss of agency in AI-mediated reading and writing [Invited talk]. Re-Writing Writing Through AI Workshop, Algorithms, Data & Democracy Program, Danmarks Tekniske Universitet, Copenhagen, Denmark.

Workshop Facilitation

10. Barcelos, M., & Thomsen, M. R. (Chairs). (2026, March). AI-assisted archival research in the age of vast data and the non-canonical [Workshop]. Digital Humanities in the Nordic and Baltic Countries 2026 (DHNB2026), Aarhus, Denmark.

Outreach & Professional Workshops

11. Barcelos, M. (2026, March). Prompting with purpose: Applying structured strategies to overcome LLM limitations [Guest lecture]. Studium Generale, Aarhus University, Aarhus, Denmark.
12. Barcelos, M. (2025, December). Prompting with purpose: Applying structured strategies to overcome LLM limitations [Workshop]. Rhetor, Copenhagen, Denmark.

Awards and Honors

Fall 2023 — Full Tuition Waiver and Monthly Grant — Aarhus University, Denmark
Given to a student displaying academic excellence, allowing them more financial freedom while studying

Spring 2023 — Graduated Magna Cum Laude — CSU Long Beach, CA, USA
"With Great Honor", signifying academic excellence based on the students grades throughout their studies

Fall 2022 — Outstanding Senior in Psychology — CSU Long Beach, CA, USA
Given to the top 5% of students in the Psychology Department in terms of academics, scholarship, and service

Sep. 2022 — Student Travel Fund Grant – Obesity Week Presentation — CSU Long Beach, CA, USA
Awarded by California State University, Long Beach Associated Student Inc.

Apr. 2022 — 1st Place Undergraduate Research — CSU Long Beach, CA, USA
Awarded at the CSULB 50th Annual Psych Day Research Competition

2019 – 2023 — NIH BUILD Research Scholar — CSU Long Beach, CA, USA
Awarded by the National Institutes of Health, Award Number: 5TL4GM118980-07

Jun. 2021 — President's Honor List — CSU Long Beach, CA, USA
Given for completion of 12 or more graded course units with a semester GPA equal to or greater than 3.75

References

Mads Rosendahl Thomsen, Ph.D.
Professor
Aarhus University
madsrt@cc.au.dk

Rebekah Baglini, Ph.D.
Associate Professor
Aarhus University
rbkh@cc.au.dk

Nina Beguš, Ph.D.
Researcher
UC Berkeley
nbegus@berkeley.edu